

THE NUGGET

Colour Supplement

No.354 May 2023

EDITORIAL

I'm as pleased as ever to present the May 2023 edition of the Nugget Colour Supplement.

We are carrying on with a fine collection of items languishing around on my iPhone since Xmas, not least of which some great action from the South Yorkshire front.

Days out in the summer months to come? Whatever it is you're doing, do send in pictures of it! You'll find me as usual at russellking712@hotmail.com

Thank you and I hope you enjoy the issue!

Data scientist, cartographer, designer

I'm a Northern Virginia native, currently living in Reston. I graduated from the University of Chicago in 2019 with a B.S. in statistics.

As a geography and data nerd, I make maps in my free time, inspired by the world around me – whatever happens to be on my mind. Every now and then a map of mine becomes popular and gets publicity. Those interested can see my work or get in touch through this website.

I've also written a few Quora answers, some of them quite in-depth. I made this site to consolidate my maps, answers, and other creative output.

Let's get to work

I'm available for hire as a freelancer. If you need to ...

- Make a map
- Make an interactive data visualization
- Process some big spatial data
- Measure something that's hard to measure
